Masters Swimmers Try It Again Friday

By JIM SARNI
Staff Writer

Old swimmers don't die, they just wrinkle a little and keep on treading.

This weekend at the Hall of Fame Pool, the old men and women of the sea will drift together for the National AAU Short Course Masters Swimming Championships.

Among the Masters (a master is any swimmer 25 years or older) are a school of national champions as well as several Olympians.

"We have a record number of entries this year," said Buck Dawson of the Hall of Fame. "There will be 633 swimmers (394 men, 239 women) here for the three-day meet."

The competitors include recent Olympians such as Carl Robie, the 1968 200 butterfly medalist, now a lawyer in Sarasota. Dr. Bill Yorzyk, the only U.S. Olympic champion in 1956, will be here. Gary Dilly, a 1964 silver medalist, is entered in the backstroke.

The largest delegation is from the 1952 Olympic team. That strong team had on it such notables as Bumpy Jones, the first world's record holder in the individual medley, and Gail Peters, the all-around star from the Walter Reed Swim Club.

"We have some great sprinters from the past coming, too," said Dawson. "We have Allen Ford, who broke Johnny Weismueller's record. Peter Fick, a great sprinter in 1936. Bill Prew, who swam in the war years. These are the fastest living humans of their periods. The Andy Coans of yesterday."

The oldest entries are a pair of 81-year-old swimmers and, even they, must bow in respect to Fred Luhring and Jam Handy.

Luhring is 93, a former great swimming coach, who is still quite active. He recently became the oldest person to hike the Appalachian Trail, from Maine to Georgia.

Handy, who is in his 80s (Dawson thinks he's 87), is the country's oldest Olympian.

Both will be honored at the Masters swim.

Masters swimmers participate for a number of reasons.

"These are self-motivated people," said Dawson. "They're not swimming for a school team or because mother wants them to. Their reasons are as divergent as their numbers.

"For instance, there's Jody Alderson, a great swimmer from the 1948 and 1952 teams. She had been swimming on relay teams and placing second or third when her kids asked her husband, why, if she was once the world's best, is she now losing to old women. So, in her case, there is a slight degree of embarrassment involved. She swims to prove herself.

"Then, there is one swimmer, who weighed over 300 pounds. He started swimming at a late age and now he's down to 197 pounds."

The meet begins Friday with the 1650 freestyle and the 200 free relay. It continues Saturday and Sunday. All events begin at 9 a.m.

Masters Swimmers Are Sea-soned Vets

Cathy Morse had no intention of swimming another competitive stroke. Christie Slimak found 60-year olds make good friends. Kristy King felt a little heavy.

All three are part of the ever-growing younger set that has found a home in the AAU Masters Swim program. Despite having swimming backgrounds, none of the trio ever thought the competitive aspect of the sport would ever mean as much to them again as it does now.

Morse, 25, was a top AAU age group swimmer, but despite making the NCAA national's as a college competitor, felt she was losing interest in swimming.

"My attitude's changed," she said yesterday at the Masters National Meet at the Hall of Fame Pool. "Now it's fun again. It wasn't in college. I'm enjoying the workouts now and want to see how far I can push myself."

During the meet, she pushed herself well enough to lower her best-ever times in all five of her events, winning three silver and two bronze medals.

"I really believe once swimming and training becomes a chore, you should stop," the Groton, Mass. high school teacher said. "Now it's more fun than ever for me."

One of the reasons Morse is having a good time may be her coach. He's her husband Tim, who's another of the more than 600 swimmers who participated in the three-day meet which ended yesterday. Also a teacher, he works with physically and perceptually handicapped children.

"The thing that's most important to me is the amount of work Tim has put into my swimming," Cathy said. "He's really able to motivate me. He thinks with more practice (up to seven miles a day), I can do even better."

Slimak, who is also a special education teacher, working three schools in the East York, Conn., area, swam in college for William Smith, but like many of the other Masters swimmers, is now doing the best times of her life.

Those times, though, are not what's kept her in swimming.

"I enjoy the exercise and the good feeling it's giving me," said Slimak, 27. "I enjoy knowing it's one of the best sports I could be participating in. And it's great meeting people. We not only have friends in our own age group, we're able to make friends from 25 to 80. I can truly call a lot of these 60 and 70-year olds my friends."

The friendship aspect of Masters swim was also important to King, but it's developed into more than that.

"When I first moved to San Mateo (Calif.) from St. Louis, I joined the Marlins to get back in shape," King said. "Then I found I was enjoying it, making friends on the team. I just wanted to keep going.

"Now it's important enough to me that if I move back to St. Louis, I'm going to make sure there's a good Masters program there first."

Masters' Swimmer Engel Has Close Shave

By JOHN WOLIN
 Staff Writer

Not many of the swimmers competing in the National AAU Men's and Women's Short Course Masters Swimming Championships at the Hall of Fame Pool shave down. It's usually a technique reserved for younger swimmers competing in their biggest meets of the year.

And most of those who do it then, don't go to the extreme of including their heads in the cropping operation.

But most of those aren't riding the swimming high that Seattle's Steve Engel is. Engel has shaved every visible hair on his body excepting his moustache simply because he's elated at being here.

After working for nearly a year getting ready to compete, Engel almost didn't make it.

Both he and his wife were victims of a 4,000-teacher layoff in the Greater Seattle area. When Engel, a high school math teacher, found out his contract would not be renewed next year due to a levy failure, he decided to cancel his long planned for trip.

But Engel had a surprise coming. At the regional qualifying meet two weeks ago, members of his team raised the $400 he needed for the trip and presented it to him at the meet's completion. Engel never knew what was happening.

"They raised it because they knew how badly I wanted to come here," Engel said. "I wouldn't have been here if it wasn't for them. I didn't know what to say when they announced what everybody in the place except me must have known. I was speechless, just shocked."

The shock must have worn off because yesterday afternoon, Engel swam the best 1,650-yard freestyle (18:35.9) of his life, good enough for third place in the men's 30-34-year-old competition.

"I swam for Cal Poly when I was in college, but I didn't even letter," Engel said. "I was swimming this race in '22s. Now I've improved on all my college times, and that was 10 years ago."

The Masters swim program has given Engel, and many of the 633 swimmers competing yesterday, a chance to start over.

"The reason I shaved down for this meet goes back to when I was 17," Engel, 31, said. "I really wanted to be a good swimmer then, but I'd started way too late. Now I have a second chance to gain national recognition. It gave me another chance to work to my potential. It's like being a kid again."

Engel had shaved his arms and legs for the regional meet, leaving his head hair at its natural medium length.

"All these people have been so good to me, I just wanted to swim my best time for them," Engel said. "Shaving my head gave me the extra psych."

72-Year Old Master Still Making Waves

By JOHN WOLIN

John Moore doesn't bother with miles, yards and seconds when he practices for the National AAU Men's and Women's Short Course Masters Swimming Championships now underway at the Hall of Fame Pool.

Moore, 72, doesn't even bother with a pool.

He works out in the canal behind his Pine Key home, and he measures his daily swim by the number of lots he passes.

"Some of these people are going to be insulted, because I don't practice the way they do," Moore said yesterday. He is one of 600 swimmers competing. "I just swim a quarter of a mile per day, half of it freestyle and half backstroke. Then I try and sprint the last 25 yards.

"They'll be mad when they hear that, too. They swim miles and all that."

The other competitors may envy the way Moore can win without hours of practice, but none would envy the site of his workouts.

The lots are 75 feet wide, and I just swim down the canal eight lots," said Moore. "I take my time, I've never been timed. I'm just swimming for fun. If I swam more than a quarter of a mile a day, I'd be making work out of it."

Moore is in the second year of a comeback after a 48-year layoff from competitive swimming. As a younger man, he was a national juniors champion in the 220-yard backstroke and 500-freestyle.

Yesterday was a super day for him. After taking a tip from Snag Holmes, a Gold Coast Masters teammate, Moore cut 18 seconds from his time in the 200-back, swimming the race in 3:45.0 to establish a national record in his age group. All he did was keep his head down lower.

He also finished third in the 200-free. The man who won the race is Clarence Ross, a spry 75-year old, who holds all five freestyle records in the 70-79 year old class.

As a student at Rutgers University, he was a three-time national champion in the 220-free, and dominated the AAU's three, five and 10-mile events all during the 1920s.

Refusing to quit even then, he was the Navy's South Pacific quarter-mile champion in 1946, winning that title in his last race before joining the Masters program three years ago.

"I was swimming against all the kids in the Navy in that one," Ross said yesterday after winning the 200-free in 2:52.6 to break his second record of the meet. "Now I'm swimming three to four days a week, about an hour each day. It comes out to about a mile.

"I'm enjoying it a great deal. If I don't get a certain amount of swimming in each week, I don't feel up to par."

Both men got back into swimming competitively almost by accident.

Moore was out visiting friends in California when the secretary of the San Diego Masters introduced him to the Masters program and got him back in the water.

Ross was in Spain taking leisurely laps in a pool when another Masters swimmer spotted him. Ross came back to the US and helped found the New Jersey Masters.

The three-day meet, involving competitors 25 to 81, ends today. Competition begins at 9 a.m. at the Hall of Fame.

MASTERS NOTES SWIMMING

FROM THE EDITOR: The meet is over. The wedding is over. And I finally finished typing the meet results. If any mistakes are discovered - either in times or in scores - please send me the correction and I will have it checked. All of the medals not picked up will eventually get mailed to the recipients. ALL AMERICAN PATCHES: After discovering that the wrong patches were issued with the All American Certificates, I wrote to the National AAU Office and informed them of their mistake. I returned all of the Championship patches that I had left and asked them to ship me the correct patches. It would be appreciated if you could send me the patch issued by mistake along with a self-addressed stamped envelope and then I can replace the patch when I receive the correct ones. This would save me so much time in looking up all of the addresses.....

THANK YOU: I wish to thank Jane Hardy, Christie Slimak, Dot Donnelly, Jean Pieretti and Tink Bolster for helping me in the registration room at the meet.....

1976 NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS: Hopefully, we will get someone interested in bidding for these two meets. The Short Course meet is slated for the western Zone while the Long Course Meet is slated for the central Zone. If you know of anyone interested in holding one of these meets, please write me for the bid applications.....

PROPOSED RULE CHANGES: All proposed rule changes for Masters Swimming should be sent to the Masters Swimming Rules Chairman by Friday, August 15th at the latest. They must be in the hands of the chairman by that date. All changes should be sent to John R. Spannuth, Chairman, Masters Swimming Rules Committee, c/o United States Swimming Foundation, Reed & Washington Sts., Reading, PA 19601.....

SUBSCRIPTION FORM: Copies of the Subscription Form at the top of the page are available upon request.....

MASTERS SWIMMING INFORMATION: Due to so many requests for more information about Masters Swimming a booklet must be written. If you know of any helpful item that should be included, please send it to me.....

NATIONAL SWIMMING POOL INSTITUTE: Robert H. Steel, NSPI Executive Vice President, writes of their continuing support of Masters Swimming. Please show your appreciation by donating to the President's Pool today!.....

Ford Pool Done by July?

Construction was started on May 14 and is to be completed by July 1 or shortly thereafter. The new White House pool is a 22x55 foot in-ground "Gunite" pool with heater. It is being located on the south side of the White House (facing the Washington Monument), near the President's Oval Office on a mound of earth. It parallels a driveway between the White House and the Executive Office Building and will be obscured from view by landscaping.

The price of the complete pool, including heater, equipment and deck, is estimated at $52,417 plus about $9,000 for landscaping.

The National Swimming Pool Institute will share the fund raising responsibility to pay for the pool with a special group of aquatic organizations which includes the Olympic Committee, the AAU and the American Swim Coaches Assn. Any extra funds collected will be donated to the USOC.

All donations should be sent to: WHITE HOUSE POOL FUND, P.O. Box 81, Washington, DC 20044.
